⊘ No new pit can be within 100m of another residential property.

Environmental Protection Act

All EPA readings can be taken from a distance of 30m from a residence.

The residence shown is directly east of the land in question. Prevailing Westerlies will make it extremely difficult if not impossible to operate an aggregate operation within the prescribed EPA limits. Continuous monitoring those pollutants is guaranteed.

30m distance - means the readings can be taken from on the land in question!

● Location of grades taken Nov 2009. The large London company (with no presence north of London) that took these grades decided not to pursue the property after these grades were taken.
